Example

This Example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds.

The Example assumes that you invest $10,000 for the time periods indicated and then redeem or hold all of your Shares at the end of those periods. The Example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that operating expenses remain the same. The Example does not reflect sales charges (loads) on reinvested dividends. If these sales charges (loads) were included, your costs would be higher. Although your actual costs and returns may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions your costs would be:

Share Class	1 Year	3 Years	5 Years	10 Years
IS	$238	$733	$1,255	$2,686
R6	$234	$721	$1,235	$2,646

Portfolio Turnover

The Fund pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes when Fund Shares are held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in Annual Fund Operating Expenses or in the Example, affect the Fund's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, the Fund's portfolio turnover rate was 20% of the average value of its portfolio.

RISK/RETURN SUMMARY: INVESTMENTS, RISKS AND PERFORMANCE

What are the Fund's Main Investment Strategies?

The Fund pursues its investment objective of long-term capital appreciation by investing typically in large-cap equity securities of companies (i.e., companies with market capitalizations greater than $10 billion) domiciled in, or that derive a large proportion of their revenue from, global developed and emerging markets. The Fund will also invest in component securities of the MSCI All Country World Index or in securities of companies listed in the countries referenced in this index. The Fund will generally allocate a substantial amount of its total assets (approximately 40% or more – unless market conditions are not deemed favorable by the Adviser, in which case the Fund would invest at least 30%) to non-U.S. investments.

The Fund will be an actively managed portfolio using a disciplined fundamental stock-selection process based on well documented market anomalies. The Fund’s investment adviser or sub-adviser (as applicable, the “Adviser”) will use a proprietary quantitative model which captures systematic behavioral biases of market participants in order to generate returns for the Fund. The Fund’s investments will be selected based on the output of this model and will favor equity securities which have a combination of proven fundamental characteristics. Companies with a competitive advantage and a sustainable business model are sought after as they are more likely to offer visibility of earnings growth. In addition, the Adviser believes that companies that are well governed are more likely to avoid unforeseeable negative impacts and targets such companies. The Adviser believes that choosing stocks that demonstrate a combination of these characteristics will allow the Fund to hold stocks over the long-term. The Adviser employs a disciplined subjective analysis that assesses the model’s effectiveness.

As part of the strategy’s assessment of quality and its approach to risk management, risks associated with a company’s approach to environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues are actively assessed. The Adviser considers data on Federated Hermes’ proprietary ESG Dashboard, which contains a wide range of ESG factors and ranks companies on their behaviors versus peers. The Adviser’s approach to ESG integration in its investment analysis draws upon both internal and external sources.

The Adviser assesses companies within its investment universe on their exposure to and management of ESG risks and assigns a weighted score for each. ESG represents governance (being the way in which the company is run), environmental issues (such as the impact on natural resources), and social issues (such as human rights). No sector or industry is excluded from the initial analysis. While the Adviser generally seeks to assess and score all companies in which the Fund invests using this ESG analysis, the Adviser may invest up to 10% of the Fund’s net assets in companies that have not been subject to ESG analysis. The Adviser’s ESG assessment favors companies with lower ESG risks and companies with good or improving ESG track records. The ESG factors are combined with the other factors of the quantitative model to determine the overall attractiveness of each company. The output from the quantitative model is analyzed by the Adviser to seek to ensure that all relevant information is accurately captured and that the Fund is not exposed to risks not otherwise identified by the quantitative model.

Based on the Adviser’s ESG scoring methodology, the Adviser will generally not invest in those companies whose ESG scores are in the lowest 20% of companies in the investment universe the Adviser has analyzed. However, the Adviser may invest in companies with poor ESG scores, including those in the lowest 20% analyzed by the Adviser where the company has shown a desire to improve their ESG behaviors and can demonstrate good corporate governance practices and/or a willingness to engage on issues if they arise. The Adviser may utilize input from its affiliate, EOS at Federated Hermes, a stewardship and engagement team, to support the identification of, and engagement with, suitable companies that meet the criteria outlined above and below. These ESG considerations are intended to provide guidance to the Adviser with respect to best practice standards of corporate governance and equity stewardship in order for the Adviser to make informed investment decisions.

The Fund will invest in a diversified portfolio of equities (such as common and/or preferred stock and/or rights/warrants) or equity-related instruments (such as depositary receipts) of, or relating to companies in, or that derive a large proportion of their revenue from, global developed and emerging markets. Investment in or exposure to such securities will be on a long-only basis. The Fund will not invest in companies that generate any portion of revenue from the production of controversial weapons. For purposes of this strategy, examples of controversial weapons include cluster munitions, anti-personnel mines, biological weapons and chemical weapons.

The Fund may invest in other investment companies and futures contracts to implement elements of its investment strategy, including for cash flow management, cost effectiveness, and gaining exposure to certain markets and securities in a quicker or more efficient manner. These investments will be on a long-only basis. There can be no assurance that the Fund's use of futures contracts will work as intended. Futures contract investments made by the Fund are included within the Fund's 80% policy (as described below) and are calculated at market value.

The Fund will invest its assets so that, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of its net assets (plus any borrowings for investment purposes) are invested in equity investments. The Fund will notify shareholders at least 60 days in advance of any change in its investment policy that would permit the Fund to invest, under normal circumstances, less than 80% of its net assets (plus any borrowings for investment purposes) in equity investments.

What are the Main Risks of Investing in the Fund?

All mutual funds take investment risks. Therefore, it is possible to lose money by investing in the Fund. The primary factors that may reduce the Fund's returns include:

- Stock Market Risk. The value of equity securities in the Fund's portfolio will fluctuate and, as a result, the Fund's Share price may decline suddenly or over a sustained period of time. Information publicly available about a company, whether from the company's financial statements or other disclosures or from third parties, or information available to some but not all market participants, can affect the price of a company's shares in the market. Among other factors, equity securities may decline in value because of an increase in interest rates or changes in the stock market. Recent and potential future changes in industry and/or economic trends, as well as changes in monetary policy made by central banks and/or their governments, also can affect the level of interest rates and contribute to the development of or increase in volatility, illiquidity, shareholder redemptions and other adverse effects (such as a decline in a company's stock price), which could negatively impact the Fund's performance.

- Quantitative Modeling Risk. The Fund employs quantitative models as a management technique. These models examine multiple economic factors using various proprietary and third-party data. The results generated by quantitative analysis may perform differently than expected and may negatively affect Fund performance for various reasons (for example, human judgment, data imprecision, software or other technology malfunctions, or programming inaccuracies).
- Environmental, Social and Governance Risk. The Adviser considers environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues as part of its security selection process. ESG factors are not the only factors considered by the Adviser and there is no guarantee the companies in which the Fund invests will be considered ESG companies or have high ESG ratings. Such considerations may fail to produce the intended result, and the Fund may underperform funds that do not have such a strategy.
- Risk Related to the Economy. The value of the Fund's portfolio may decline in tandem with a drop in the overall value of the markets in which the Fund invests and/or other markets. Economic, political and financial conditions, industry or economic trends and developments or public health risks, such as epidemics or pandemics, may, from time to time, and for varying periods of time, cause the Fund to experience volatility, illiquidity, shareholder redemptions, or other potentially adverse effects.
- Large-Cap Company Risk. The Fund may invest in large capitalization (or "large-cap") companies. Large cap companies may have fewer opportunities to expand the market for their products or services, may focus their competitive efforts on maintaining or expanding their market share, and may be less capable of responding quickly to competitive challenges. These factors could result in the share price of large companies not keeping pace with the overall stock market or growth in the general economy, and could have a negative effect on the Fund's portfolio, performance and Share price.
- Risk of Foreign Investing. The foreign markets in which the Fund invests may be subject to economic or political conditions which are less favorable than those of the United States and may lack financial reporting standards or regulatory requirements comparable to those applicable to U.S. companies.
- Risk of Investing in Depositary Receipts and Domestically Traded Securities of Foreign Issuers. Because the Fund may invest in American Depositary Receipts and other domestically traded securities of foreign companies, whether in the United States or in foreign local markets, the Fund's Share price may be more affected by foreign economic and political conditions, taxation policies and accounting and auditing standards than would otherwise be the case.

- Risk of Investing in Emerging Market Countries. Securities issued or traded in emerging markets, including frontier markets, generally entail greater risks than securities issued or traded in developed markets. For example, their prices may be significantly more volatile than prices in developed countries. Emerging market economies may also experience more severe downturns (with corresponding currency devaluations) than developed economies. Emerging market countries may have relatively unstable governments and may present the risk of nationalization of businesses, expropriation, confiscatory taxation or, in certain instances, reversion to closed market, centrally-planned economies. These same risks exist and may be greater in frontier markets.
- Currency Risk. Exchange rates for currencies fluctuate daily. Accordingly, the Fund may experience increased volatility with respect to the value of its Shares and its returns as a result of its exposure to foreign currencies through direct holdings of such currencies or holdings of non-U.S. dollar denominated securities.
- European Union and Eurozone Related Risk. A number of countries in the European Union (EU), including certain countries within the EU that have adopted the euro (Eurozone), have experienced, and may continue to experience, severe economic and financial difficulties. Additional countries within the EU may also fall subject to such difficulties. These events could negatively affect the value and liquidity of the Fund's investments in euro-denominated securities and derivatives contracts, securities of issuers located in the EU or with significant exposure to EU issuers or countries.
- Liquidity Risk. The securities in which the Fund invests may be less readily marketable and may be subject to greater fluctuation in price than other securities.
- Risk of Investing in Derivative Contracts. Derivative contracts involve risks different from, or possibly greater than, risks associated with investing directly in securities and other traditional investments. Specific risk issues related to the use of such contracts include valuation and tax issues, increased potential for losses and/or costs to the Fund and a potential reduction in gains to the Fund. Each of these issues is described in greater detail in this Prospectus. Derivative contracts may also involve other risks described in this Prospectus, such as stock market, interest rate, credit, currency, liquidity and leverage risks.
- Counterparty Credit Risk. Credit risk includes the possibility that a party to a transaction involving the Fund will fail to meet its obligations. This could cause the Fund to lose the benefit of the transaction or prevent the Fund from selling or buying other securities to implement its investment strategy.
- Custodial Services and Related Investment Costs. Custodial services and other costs relating to investment in international securities markets generally are more expensive due to differing settlement and clearance procedures than those of the United States.

■ Technology Risk. The Adviser uses various technologies in managing the Fund consistent with its investment objective and strategy described in this Prospectus. For example, proprietary and third-party data and systems are utilized to support decision making for the Fund. Data imprecision, software or other technology malfunctions, programming inaccuracies and similar circumstances may impair the performance of these systems, which may negatively affect Fund performance.

The Shares offered by this Prospectus are not deposits or obligations of any bank, are not endorsed or guaranteed by any bank and are not insured or guaranteed by the U.S. government, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Federal Reserve Board or any other government agency.
